

01 Overview

Holcim has successfully transitioned over one third of its sales to eco-friendly concrete and cement products, reflecting strong demand for sustainable construction materials and driving margin improvement through innovation. The company targets CHF 200 million in savings by 2028 through AI-driven operational efficiencies, illustrating a concrete application of technology to reduce costs and enhance competitiveness in a highly fragmented materials industry. Additionally, Holcim's strategic spin-off of its North American business sharpens its focus on Europe and Latin America—regions poised for growth.

A second paragraph follows the lead to confirm spacing between stacked paragraphs still reads cleanly and the drop cap only governs the first one.